

After School Capacity Building for Sexual and Reproductive Health Agency Application

The Partnership for After School Education (PASE) is working in collaboration with Planned Parenthood of New York City (PPNYC) to implement an organizational capacity building program focused on sexual and reproductive health (SRH) in after school environments. This capacity building program includes the adoption of After School Sexuality Guiding Principles, training for after school providers in SRH and communication skills, and transforming the after school environment to include SRH materials so that staff and youth have credible SRH resources and referrals lists.

Two or three after school agencies will be selected to participate in this capacity building program. The implementation will take place June 2019 - March 2020. All interested agencies must complete and submit this application by Wednesday, May 22, 2019.
