

Practitioner Tools and Resources | 2024 Building Resilience: Mental Health Symposium Panel

Below are resources shared during the panel of our 2024 Building Resilience: Mental Health Symposium.

- Issue Briefs + Reports - Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health \(cityofnewyork.us\)
The NYC Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health completed an 18-month Listening and Feedback Tour with Peer Support Workers and Community Health Workers, and have since released a report and one-page summary of their findings and recommendations. Head to the "Issue Briefs + Reports" page of the Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health website to read more.
- Academy for Community Behavioral Health - Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health \(cityofnewyork.us\)
The Academy of Community Behavioral Health provides training, coaching, and technical assistance that build the capacity of community-based organizations, City/State agencies, and other social service providers to address behavioral health. Keep an eye on their site for upcoming opportunities.
- Behavioral Health Career Roadmap - Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health \(cityofnewyork.us\)
The Behavioral Health Career Roadmap was created by the Mayor's Office of Community Mental Health to highlight the different entry points into and pathways within a behavioral health career. Check it out for more information on education and training as well as roles and potential salaries.

Tools and Resources Shared in Response to 9/24 Building Resilience: Mental Health Symposium

- On Our Terms
On Our Terms is a participatory-action research project on restorative justice, collective safety, and healing in schools. Check out their interactive website linked above or their PDF report to learn how restorative justice impacts healing, care, and mental health for young people and school communities.